Where can I get free solar panels?

Some local cities and counties also offer direct rebates to help with the upfront costs of solar panel installations. If you're looking for free solar panels, or at least solar panels with less cost upfront, solar leases, solar loans, and community solar are good options.

Are "free" solar panels a good idea?

The concept of "free" or "no-cost" solar panels really is too good to be true. "Free" solar panels are essentially rented from solar companies. While you will reap the benefits of cheaper electricity bills through solar power, you do not own the panels; the solar company does. Once your lease agreement is up, the panels will be removed.

Should you lease or buy solar panels?

Leasing solar panels gives you access to solar power without paying substantial upfront equipment costs. With this arrangement, you pay the solar leasing company a fixed monthly fee and receive the benefits of having solar power on tap without ownership of the system.

Should you buy a solar lease or PPA?

The most significant selling point for a lease or PPA is that there is no upfront cost and no maintenance. Keep in mind that solar panel systems generally require very little maintenance anyway, so you likely won't benefit from choosing a lease over a $0-down solar loan.

You've likely seen the enticing ads: "Get Solar Panels for Free!" and wondered if it's too good to be true. The short answer is that while no company gives away solar panels to own for free, ...

There's no such thing as free solar panels or free government solar programs. Most "free" offers are actually leases, power purchase agreements, loans or scams.

This guide will walk you through everything there is to know as well as how to get solar panels for free.

The Department of Energy is aware of claims of offers for free solar panels or that solar companies must provide solar panels for free if requested. However, the federal government does ...
